Dear Sasha:

According to federal regulations, a student must be making satisfactory academic progress (SAP) toward degree completion in order to be eligible for financial aid. Our office has verified that at the end of spring semester 2011 you have not met one or more of the standards for making satisfactory academic progress. As a result, if you complete the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) you will not be eligible for federal, state, or institutional funding for the 2011-2012 academic year.

The reason(s) for your SAP standing is:

Completed less than 75% of attempted coursework.
Completed less than 75% of attempted coursework.

If by the end of spring semester 2012, your progress is once again meeting all the standards, your eligibility for federal, state or institutional aid will be reevaluated and you may be reinstated.

If you feel you have extenuating circumstances and would like to appeal this decision, please review the appeal process located at:

- 1845. www.financialaid.missouri.edu
- 1846. Select -- Eligibility
- 1847. Select -- Satisfactory academic progress appeals.
- 1848. Once your appeal is reviewed, you will be notified of the results.

Sincerely,
